The No-Looking Drawing Game

Outta Sight is the exciting new drawing game, where you create images without looking at your drawing. When it is revealed to members of your team, if they can guess what you drew, your team wins a point!

So how do you play?

Outta Sight™

The No-Looking Drawing Game

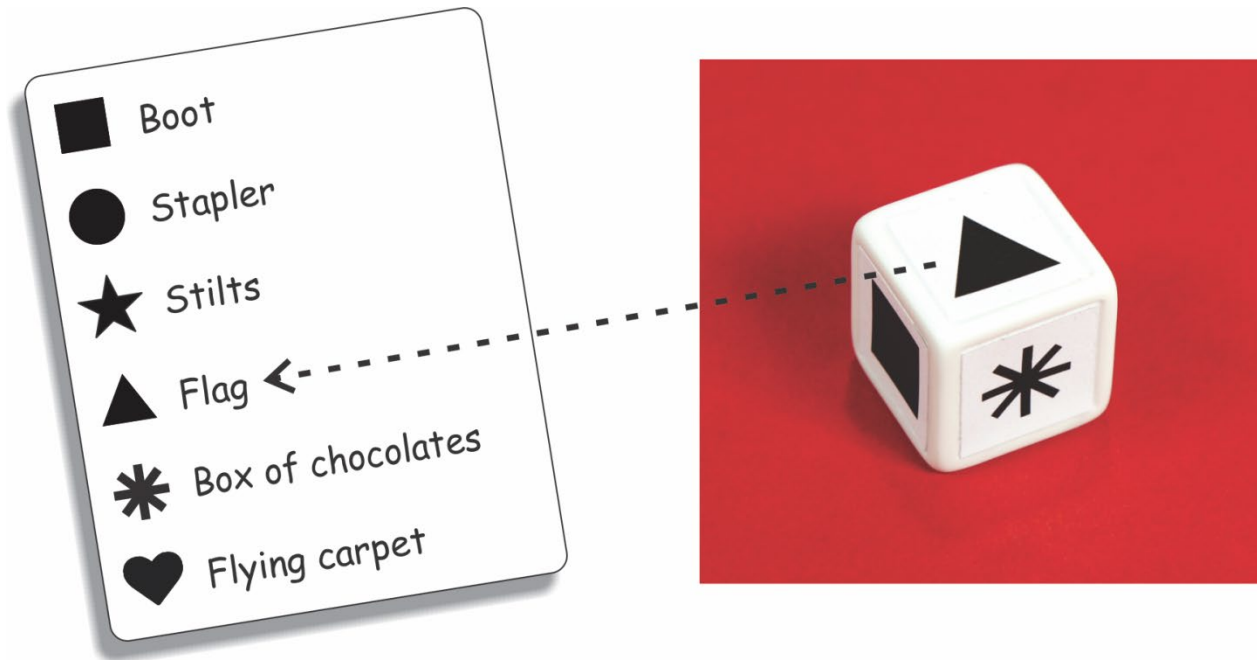

First you set up the drawing boards with the arching blockers.

Slide in the erasable drawing board.

Draw a card and roll the die.

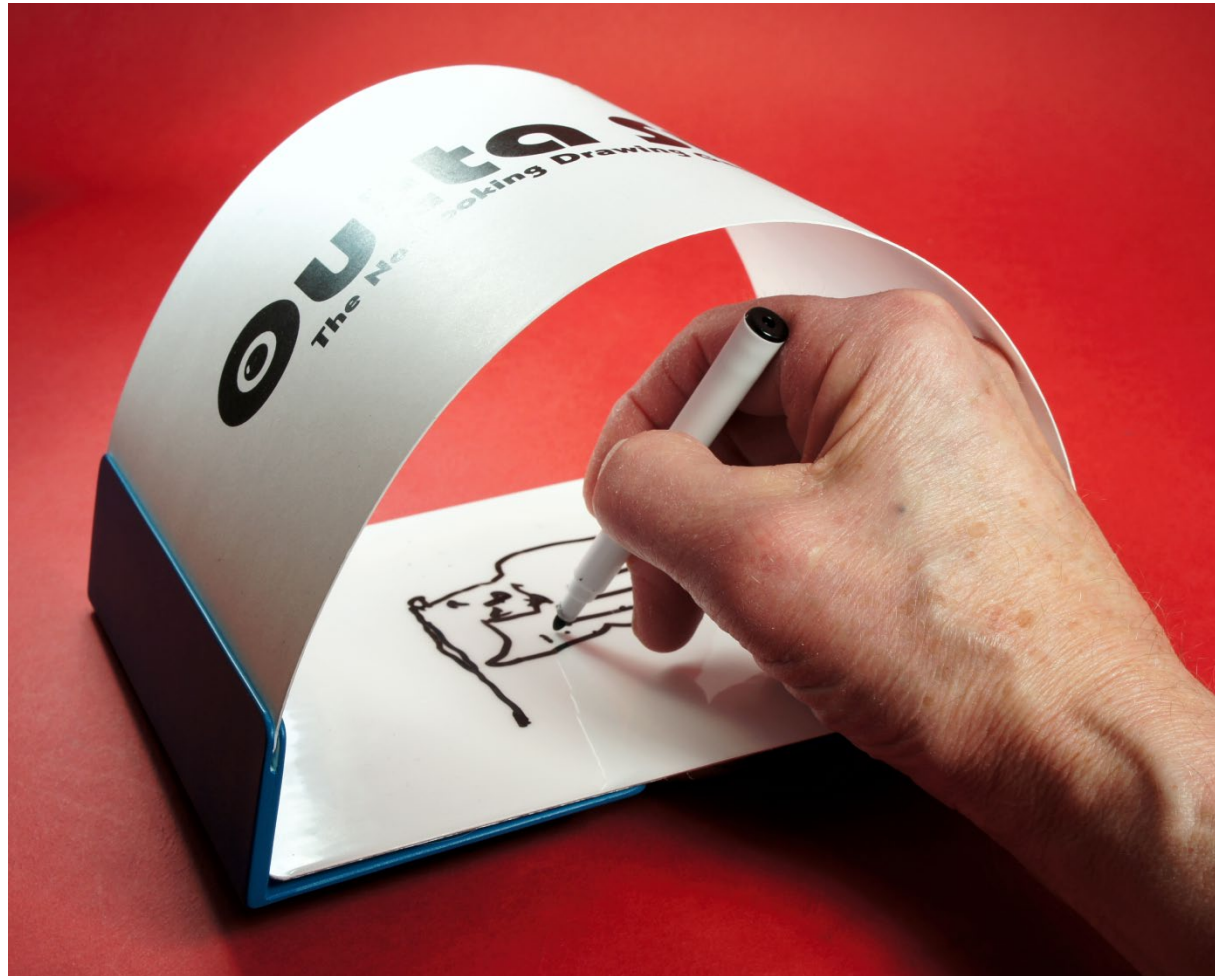

You and your opponent both have to draw a flag without looking.

Ready set GO!!!

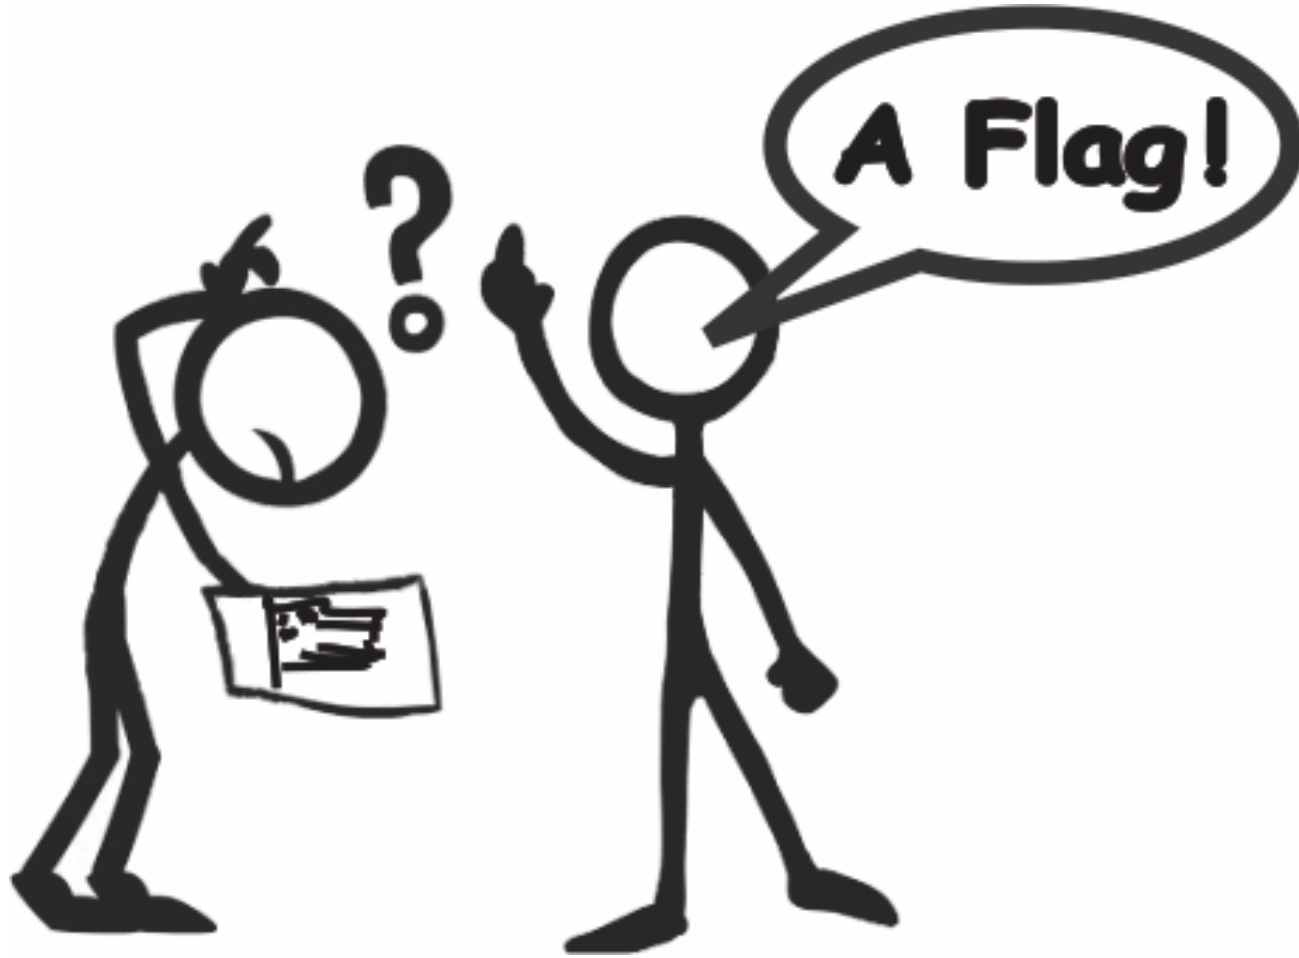

When you think you've drawn enough to get your team to say the word "flag" when they see your drawing, say "STOP!"
Now show them the drawing.

The No-Looking Drawing Game

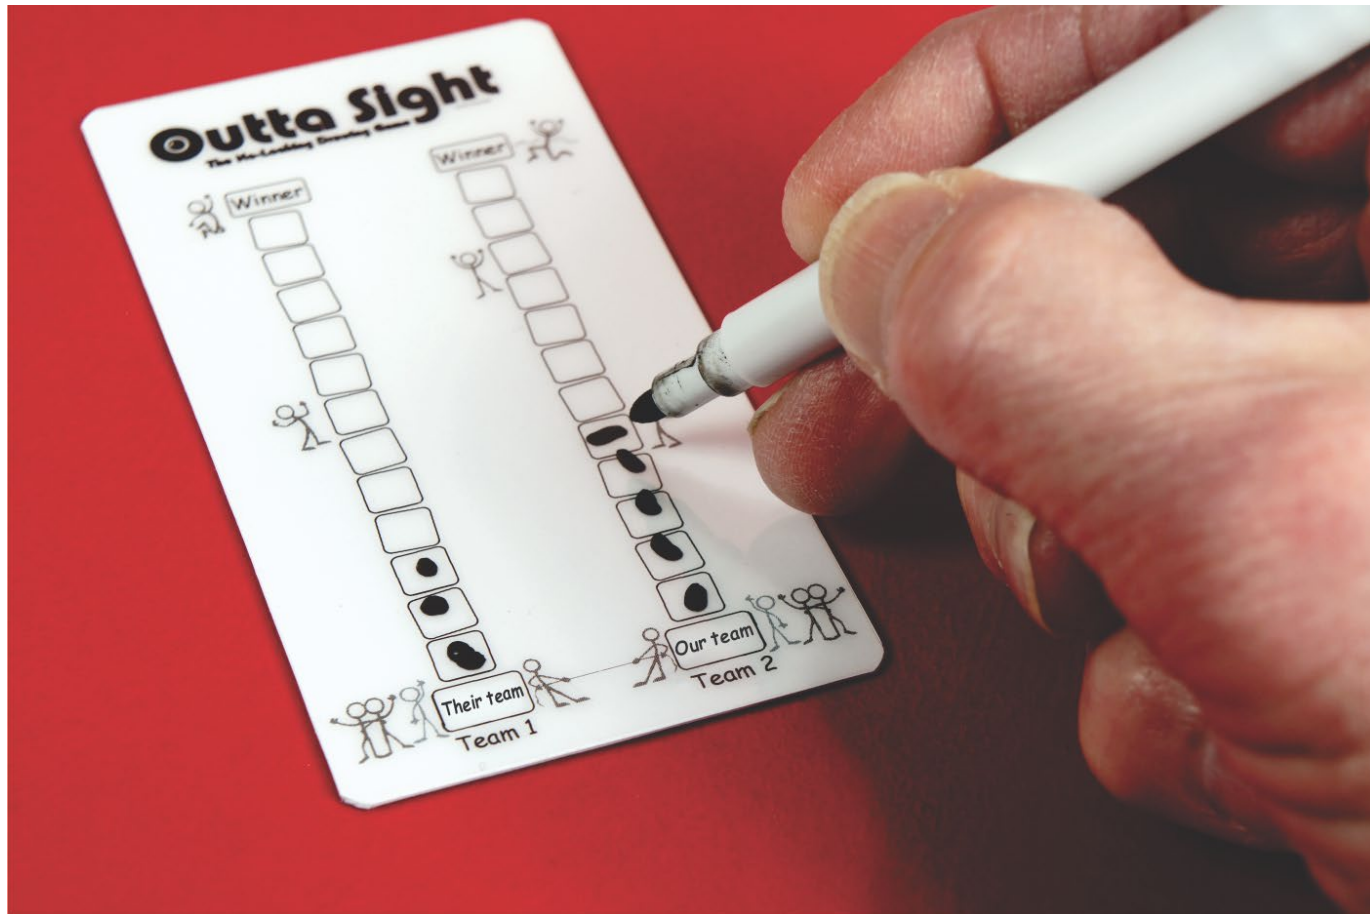

YES!! You score a point.

The No-Looking Drawing Game

Fill in another square on the erasable score card.

So that's how you play the game. You take turns so everyone gets a chance to draw. When one team has scored enough points to reach the "Winner" square at the top of the score card, that team wins the game!
